Information on examination procedures in times of the Corona crisis

First of all, the information below is as of March 16, 2020 (update of March 18, 2020), but due to the very dynamic development concerning the corona virus, the situation may change at any time.

- All university examinations are suspended until April 19, 2020. All examinations in the examination period March/April 2020 will not take place.

- All exam registrations will be cancelled in the system within the next weeks. Registered students do not have to do anything else.

- Written examinations such as term papers, bachelor or master theses are not affected by this regulation and can be submitted in the usual way.

- An extension of the processing time for written exam papers is possible in the usual way. The deadlines can be extended if there are reasons beyond the students' control. In the current situation, an extension of the deadline due to lack of childcare, domestic quarantine, etc. is also possible. Submit any applications in written form together with suitable evidence to the Examinations Office.

- If the deadline for taking the orientation exam, the Bachelor's exam or the Master's exam expires at the end of the winter semester 2019/2020, it will automatically be prolonged until the end of the replacement exam dates in the coming summer semester.
- In the coming summer semester, alternative dates for the written examinations of the winter semester will be offered. The exact examination dates can only be announced once lectures have been resumed. If possible, the examinations should take place during the semester, i.e. before the final examinations of the summer semester's courses. There will be a separate registration period.
