The Faculty of Protestant Theology at the University of Tübingen is seeking an

Assistant professor (W1) - New Testament

...to start work on 1 April 2019.

The successful candidate will be employed in the German civil service category of “Beamte” on a contract initially time-limited to four years. His/her contract may be extended for a further two years upon a positive evaluation. The successful candidate will be expected to take part in teaching at the Faculty. He/she will have a teaching load of four to six hours per week.

Independent research is expected in the areas of the Gospel and the History of New Testament Literature. The holder of this assistant professorship is expected to qualify for a full professorship at a university or equivalent institution by autonomously fulfilling the tasks of a university professor in research and teaching. Detailed information on the criteria underlying the interim and final evaluations may be found in our guidelines for review under the following link: http://uni-tuebingen.de/de/82411

Applicants are expected to have an outstanding doctoral thesis, internationally visible publications and the willingness to seek third-party funding, as well as teaching experience.

The University of Tübingen is particularly interested in applications from female candidates for this position and therefore strongly encourages women to apply. Applications from disabled candidates will be given preference if the qualifications of these candidates are equivalent to those of a non-disabled candidate. In line with its internationalization agenda, the university welcomes applications from researchers outside Germany.

Send your application together with the required documents (curriculum vitae and outline of academic career, copies of certificates and degrees, publications list, list of classes taught, overview of core research areas) to the Dean of Protestant Theology, Liebermeisterstrasse 12, 72076 Tübingen, GERMANY, ev.theologie@uni-tuebingen.de by 12 October 2018. Enquiries may also be directed to this adress.
