Deutsch-brasilianisches Symposium in Tübingen verbindet Forschende im Dienste der Nachhaltigkeit

Das 11. Deutsch-brasilianische Symposiums zur nachhaltigen Entwicklung brachte rund 120 Forschende in Tübingen zusammen.

Der Begriff ‚Nachhaltigkeit‘ gehört schon seit langem zu unserem Alltag. Heutzutage sind das Nachdenken und die Diskussionen über dieses Thema notwendiger und grundlegender denn je für die gesellschaftliche, technologische und wissenschaftliche Entwicklung. Vor diesem Hintergrund fand das Deutsch-Brasilianische Symposium zur nachhaltigen Entwicklung, das alle zwei Jahre abwechselnd in Brasilien und Deutschland stattfindet, vom 20. bis 23. März 2024 zum 11. Mal statt, diesmal an der Universität Tübingen, Deutschland. Im Mittelpunkt der Veranstaltung, bei der es um wesentliche Fragestellungen und die aktuelle Forschung rund um das Thema "Towards a Resilient and Safe Future" ging, standen Diskussionen über Resilienz, Wertschöpfung, Nahrungssicherheit und angemessenen Zugang zu Wasser.

Simpósio Brasil-Alemanha em Tübingen conecta pesquisadores em prol da sustentabilidade

O termo sustentabilidade já faz parte da nossa rotina há um bom tempo. Atualmente, reflexões e discussões em torno dessa temática tornam se cada vez mais necessárias e fundamentais para um desenvolvimento sustentável humano, tecnológico e científico. Nesse sentido, o Simpósio Brasil-Alemanha de Desenvolvimento Sustentável, que acontece a cada dois anos alternadamente no Brasil e na Alemanha, foi realizado em sua 11ª edição, na Universidade de Tübingen, na Alemanha, de 20 a 23 de março de 2024. O evento, que colocou em pauta as principais vertentes e atuais pesquisas que giram em torno do tema "Towards a Resilient and Safe Future", teve como destaque o foco nas discussões sobre resiliência, valor agregado, segurança alimentar e acesso adequado à água.

BR und DE setzen sich seit über 50 Jahren für nachhaltige Entwicklung ein.

In diesem Rahmen fördert und stärkt das Deutsches Wissenschafts- und Innovationshaus São Paulo (DWHI) den brasilianisch- deutschen Dialog zwischen Wissenschaft und Wirtschaft. Zu seinen Schwerpunkten gehören unter anderem auch #Demokratie und #Menschenrechte sowie nachhaltige Innovationen.

➤ Auf dem Weg in eine widerstandsfähige und sichere Zukunft - unter diesem Motto startet diese Woche das Deutsch-Brasilianische Symposium für Nachhaltige Entwicklung.

● Das 11. Symposium wird vom Baden-Württembergisches Brasilien- und Lateinamerika-Zentrum mit Unterstützung der Eberhard Karls Universität Tübingen, Universität Hohenheim und der Leuphana Universität Lüneburg organisiert. Schwerpunkte der Veranstaltung sind:

- ✓ Resilienz
- ✓ Wertschöpfung
- ✓ Ernährungssicherung und gerechter Zugang zu Wasser

🎤 Die Bühne ist bereitet für den inter- und transdisziplinären Austausch zwischen deutschen und brasilianischen Forschenden von 20. bis 23. März!

Die Veranstaltung richtet sich an Akteur:innen aus dem Hochschulbereich in Baden-Württemberg (Forschende, Projektkoordinator:innen, Mitarbeitende von International Offices und Verwaltung, Studierende, u.a.). Neben der Möglichkeit zum Austausch können Sie sich auf zwei spannende Impulsvorträge mit anschließender Diskussion freuen. Diese werden von Dr. Andrea Noll von der Berlin-Brandenburgische Akademie der Wissenschaften sowie Prof. Isabella Aboderin vom Perivoli Africa Research Centre gehalten.

The Africa Centre for Transregional Research (ACT) of the University of Freiburg invites to the Exchange and Networking Meeting Africa on 21.11.23 from 14:00 to 16:30 hybrid at WeiBhaus Stuttgart e. V., Charlottenplatz 17, 70173 Stuttgart and via Zoom (link follows)! Registration at agnes.dietrich@act.uni-freiburg.de.

The event is aimed at stakeholders from the higher education sector in Baden-Württemberg (researchers, project coordinators, employees of international offices and administration, students, etc.). In addition to the opportunity for exchange, you can look forward to two exciting impulse speeches followed by a discussion. These will be given by Dr. Andrea Noll from the Berlin-Brandenburg Academy of Sciences and Humanities and Prof. Isabella Aboderin from the Perivoli Africa Research Centre.

Recommendation Paper "Globale Partnerschaften an Hochschulen stärken"

23.11.2023

Universities in Baden-Württemberg should strengthen their international orientation. In its recommendation paper "Globale Partnerschaften an Hochschulen stärken" (Strengthening global partnerships at universities), the Baden-Württemberg University Network for Global Partnerships (GloPart) calls for improved conditions, financial support and increased cooperation with universities from countries in the "Global South" in order to promote sustainable global partnerships.
