WORKSHOP

LISTENING TO BLACK WOMEN: RESEARCHING SOCIAL MOVEMENTS IN AFRO-LATIN AMERICA

Prof. Dr. April J. Mayes

Pomona College in Claremont, California

Friday, June 22, 2018, 9–12 am
Keplerstraße 2, Room 1.81

For the workshop, participants will read the forthcoming chapter written by the author, "Black Feminist Formations in the Dominican Republic in the Wake of La Sentencia." After a discussion of the paper's findings, participants will turn their attention to how black feminism can inform field work and intersectionality theory can serve as a useful conceptual tool to examine social movements among African-descended peoples.
