

Thursday, February 13th - Poster Reception

- Andreas Konietzko¹ (Tübingen): Information Structural Constraints on Bare Argument Ellipsis: A Comparison between Online and Offline Evidence
- Alena Poncarová (Charles University in Prague): Co-reference of pronoun and noun phrase: information and constituent structure
- Albert Wall (Tübingen): Article Assimilation and Sisyphus Syntax: Evidence from corpora suggests strong contrasts between Brazilian and European Portuguese at the syntax-phonology interface
- Andreas Haida¹ and Sophie Repp¹ (1: HU Berlin): Are intervention effects induced by focus alternatives or by indefinite alternatives? Experimental evidence from German
- Anja Gattnar (Tübingen): Processing verbal aspect in iterative contexts: Evidence from Russian
- Anne Temme¹ and Elisabeth Verhoeven¹ (HU Berlin): Experiencers from different perspectives: Comparing judgments and frequency data
- Anthea Schöller (Tübingen): The Different Readings of "wieder" and "again"- An Experimental investigation
- Balazs Suranyi¹, István Fekete¹ and Mátyás Gerőcs¹ (1: Hungarian Academy of Sciences): Contextual strengthening in the interpretation of disjunction: Evidence from 'shallow' processing and syntactic focus marking
- Chin-Ting Jimbo Liu (National Cheng Kung University): The Need for Quantitative Data in Understanding the Prominent Meaning of Globally Ambiguous Sentences
- Corinna Koch¹, Emanuela Sanfelici¹, Alexander Thiel¹ and Petra Schulz¹ (1: Goethe-Universität Frankfurt): Acquisition of (Non-)Restrictivity in Relative Clauses
- Daisuke Suzuki¹ and Takashi Fujiwara² (1: Kyoto, 2: Kinki): Discourse and modal effects on the usage of "possible" modal adverbs: Dual approach through corpus-based and experimental analysis
- Edith Scheifele (HU Berlin): German "Perfekt": Activation of the Resultant State?
- Frank Kügler¹, Bernadett Smolibocki¹ and Manfred Stede¹ (1: Potsdam): Information status and prosody in a corpus of non-scripted spoken German

Fritz Günther¹, Carolin Dudschig¹ and Barbara Kaup¹ (1: Tübingen): Latent semantic analysis accounts for priming effects in the processing of single words and compound expressions

Jana Häussler¹, Gisbert Fanselow¹ and Thomas Weskott² (1: Potsdam, 2: Göttingen): Are you certain? On confidence affecting acceptability ratings

Johannes Kizach (Aarhus): Analyzing Likert-scale data with mixed-effects linear models - a simulation

Jon Stevens (ZAS Berlin): Where Focus fits in a theory of language

Friday, February 14th – Poster Lunch

Julia Bacskai-Atkari (Potsdam): Diachronic Evidence and the Relation between Interrogative Markers and Focus

Kristina Kotcheva¹, Tina Bögel¹, Christin Schätzle¹, Miriam Butt¹ and Nicole Dehé¹ (1: Konstanz): A Diachronic Perspective on V1 in Icelandic

Malte Belz (HU Berlin): Repair disfluencies in German native and non-native speech

Marion Knecht (Tübingen): Processing verbal morphology in patients with reorganized language

Melanie J. Bell¹, Martin Schäfer² (1: Anglia Ruskin University, 2: Jena): Breaking down semantic transparency

Masataka Yano¹, Yuki Tateyama¹ and Tsutomu Sakamoto¹ (1: Kyushu): The functional dissociations between semantic repair and revision processes in Japanese: Evidence from event-related potentials

Natalia Levshina (FNRS-Université catholique de Louvain): Frequency or iconicity? A study of causative constructions in a multilingual parallel corpus

Oliver Bott¹, Udo Klein² and Fabian Schlotterbeck¹ (1: Tübingen, 2: Bielefeld): A Semantic Model of Quantificational Complexity - Evidence from Reading Times and Picture Verification

Remus Gergel¹ and Penka Stateva² (1: Graz, 2: Nova Gorica): A decompositional analysis of almost: Bringing together diachronic and experimental comparative evidence

Sibylla Wolter¹, Carolin Dudschig¹, Irmgard de la Vega, Barabara Kaup¹ (1: Tübingen): The sound of sentences: Activation of pitch-space associations during the reading of sentences describing auditory events

Sophia Döring¹, Sophie Repp¹ (1: HU Berlin): Modal particles and discourse coherence: Corpus and experimental evidence

Sophie von Wietersheim (Tübingen): Binding as evidence for clausal attachment

Tom Juzek (Oxford): Using Acceptability Tasks To Investigate Textual And Auditory Stimuli: Benefits And Limitations

Corina Dima¹, Verena Henrich¹, Erhard Hinrichs¹, Christina Hoppermann¹ and Yannick Versley²: (1: Tübingen, 2: Heidelberg) Annotating Semantic Relations in German Noun-Noun Compounds

Yaron McNabb¹ and Doris Penka¹ (1: Konstanz): Detecting ignorance inferences: Experimental evidence from superlative modifiers and deontic modals