

Fractured Goodness: an Academic Dispute

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements

Preface

Chapter One: A View of a View of the Good

§I A View of the Good

§II A View of a View of the Good: Preliminary Distinctions and Initial Questions

§III An Axiological Interlude in Aristotle's Ethics

§IV A View of a View of the Good: Aristotle's Reaction to Plato's Axiology

§V The Arguments of Nicomachean Ethics i 6

§VI Concluding Considerations

Chapter Two: Six Views of a View of a View of the Good

§I A Source of Difficulty and a First View of Aristotle's View

§II Seven Questions about Aristotle's Metaphysics of Goodness

§III Five More Views of Aristotle's View of Plato's View of the Good

§IV Concluding Considerations

Chapter Three: A Series of Goods

§I Goods, in Order

§II A Complicated Simple Argument

§III Series, Before, and After

§IV A Conjectural Expansion

§V Concluding Considerations

Chapter Four: Goodness Across the Categories

- §I The Arguments: One Dominant and One Ancillary
- §II Goodness across the Categories: Predicational Approaches
- §III Goodness across the Categories: Non-predicational Approaches
- §IV Goodness and Being: the Co-variance Contention
- §V The Dominant Argument: a Gricean Proposal
- §VI Concluding Considerations

Chapter Five: The Diversity of Sciences

- §I An Axiological Dimension
- §II The Requisites of Science
- §III A Taxonomical Cul-deSac
- §IV Intracategorical Non-univocity
- §V Fractured Goodness
- §VI Concluding Considerations

Chapter Six: Goodness Itself

- §I Adding 'Itself'
- §II Sempiternity and Eternity: the Scalarity of Goodness
- §III A Proposal from Eustratius
- §IV A Problem for Paradeigmatism?
- §V Concluding Considerations

Chapter Seven: Intrinsic Goods Alone: a Platonic Riposte

- §I A Platonic Riposte: Goods Loved for Themselves
- §II An Ungainly Dilemma
- §III Extrinsic and Non-Extrinsic Goods

§IV The Prospect of Goodness as Core-Dependent Goodness

§V Two Ways to be Otiose

§VI Fractured Goodness Fractured

§VII Concluding Considerations

Chapter Eight: Deontological Considerations Reintroduced

§I A Return to the Deontological

§II Incorporating the Results: a Potpourri of Problems

§III The Practical Case against Paradeigmatism

§IV An Impracticable Good, an Indexed Good

§V Concluding Considerations

Chapter Nine: Good, Bad, Better, Worse: a Problem for Aristotle

§I A Prima Facie Inconsistent Triad

§II Goodness as Non-univocal

§III Synonymy as a Requisite of Commensurability

§IV Indexed Goods as Ordinally Rankable

§V Three Ways Out

§VI Rapprochement: an Encroaching Platonism

§VII Concluding Considerations

Chapter Ten: A Science of Goodness qua Goodness: a Closing Conjecture

Bibliography

Indices