

Brentano Lectures on the Philosophy of Psychology with M. G. F. Martin

July 6-8, 2015, Schloss Hohentuebingen

Franz Brentano is the founding father of modern philosophy of mind and psychology, and one of the pioneers of empirically informed theorising about the mind. Brentano has a special connection to Tuebingen, as it was the place where he made his first steps as a philosopher writing his PhD. The Brentano Lectures are held in honour of Franz Brentano to foster the exchange between philosophy and psychology.

The First Brentano Lectures on the Philosophy of Psychology will be given by Prof. M. G. F. Martin (UCL/ UC Berkeley). Alongside the Brentano Lecturer, the workshop will feature the following invited speakers: Prof. Matthew Nudds (Warwick), Prof. Susanna Schellenberg (Rutgers), and Prof. Matthew Soteriou (Warwick).
